Summer Project Trainings and Internships: 2022

*Project trainings to know about global development in Next-Gen.
Technologies!*

These Projects for Engineering & Science students aim to give participants a broad view of latest and most in-demand technologies and its prospects, so that they could know about the various applications and new achievements of nanotechnology in their respective field.

What is Nanotechnology?

Nanoscience and Nanotechnology are the current frontiers of all scientific and technological advancement. They deal with manipulation of materials at the  $10^{-9}$  m scale. This essentially means atoms at the molecular level to create new substances. Undersea cables 1/6th the weight of steel yet a hundred times stronger, extremely efficient solar panels, cement which is much stronger than existing concrete, unimaginably small and fast electronic circuits, and revolutionary new medical applications have already started changing human life. There is no area of our existence that can remain untouched by these advancements.

The increase in mobile and internet technology is an example for everyone to see. The unbelievable increase in speed of communication over the past 10 years has affected business, social networking, travel, education, technology transfer and a range of other areas. The increase in power of these devices is because of the miniaturization made possible by Nanotechnology. An average laptop or mobile phone contains transistors that are approximately 80nm in size, as opposed to 25 micrometers just a decade ago.

Salient Features of NSTC

- Industrial Collaborations
- First and Only Nanotechnology Platform
- Nanotech Programs since 2006
- Trained over 10k participants
- Associations and TieUps
- 10+ Journals: Nano Trends
- Partnering with "Bangalore Nano" India's apex event of Nanotech
- Membership for Academic and Industry bodies
- Own Content IP and Experts
- Unique Industrial problem-solving approach using Nanotech

About the Project Training

This project training is focused about explaining applications of nano scale science and the resultant technological innovations due to the commercialization of resultant products in various fields. The students pursuing their bachelors or masters in the different fields of science and technology must know the advancements in their fields which is not a part of their syllabus. This project enables them to enhance their knowledge base, pertaining to the developments in their fields of study as a result of global developments in nanoscience & technology which has changed the landscape of new research and product developments at all the industries and domains.

All the students who wish to undergo summer/winter projects/trainings in any industry can choose these projects as their training projects.

These projects are of one/ three/ six months duration. The project includes online tutorials and assessments, and is assessed through project work and online assignments. All the participants have to submit a project report at the end of the project duration. After evaluation of this report, every student will get a certificate from Nano Science and Technology Consortium (NSTC).

Students will get another opportunity to publish their review paper* written by them and evaluated by independent experts, after which it will be published in journals or posted on Nanoconnect.

Project Aim and scope

These projects for Engineering & Science students aim to give participants a broad view of latest and most in- demand technologies and its prospects, so that they could know about the various applications and new achievements in their respective fields. This would in turn enable them to give the best technology to their country. The project contains the various topics related to every field of technology and sufficient material on that topic.

(*Review paper is needed to be written by participants as per the guidelines provided by NSTC, for it to be eligible to be published in the Journal/ Nanoconnect Platform).

Benefits to participants

Some beneficial points for participants after completion of this project may be:

- They will get to know that what is nano scale technology and how it is applicable in their fields.
- After completion of this project, participants will be aware of role of nanotechnology in advancements of the present technology in their respective fields.
- Participants will be aware of the various revolutions in every field of technology such as in computer science, revolution could be continued in computer hardware right down to molecular gates and wires something that today's lithographic methods (used to make computer chips) could never hope to do. This could be possible only because of nanotechnology.
- Apart from their current syllabus contents and project topics, they can get some additional information from this project.
- This project will give them an additional certificate which could be beneficial in their career.

Domains

The following are the few branches of Engineering which will be covered in this project training: (Students can also opt or choose their areas of projects too in consultation with coordinator).

Students from any other field of Engineering or Science can apply for the project and discuss the project with the project coordinator.

- Civil Engineering
- Mechanical/ Instrumentations Engineering
- Chemical Engineering
- Computer Engineering
- Biomedical Engineering
- The following branches will be covered in this project:
- Physics
- Chemistry
- Biology

Salient Features

- Do a project in the area of your study/ specialization.
- Work on latest and most exciting areas.
- Opportunity to publish a review paper.
- Learn the new application areas.
- Get your projects evaluated by experts.
- Get certification of your project work.
- Prepare a business plan for your project for funding from government or VC's.
